Directorship Services

As independent oversight requirements dominate the investment world, our directors bring unmatched technical expertise and an understanding of legal and compliance burdens to add value to the governance process.

Corporate governance is a key area of focus for both investment funds and structured finance transactions, with investors requiring more robust oversight of the vehicles in which they are investing. This has not only increased demand for independent non-executive directors but also for those who understand the growing legal and regulatory compliance burdens placed on those vehicles.

The Maples Group provides qualified, experienced professionals to serve as independent directors on the boards of investment funds and special purpose vehicles. Our teams have deep and varied experience across a broad range of structures and strategies and bring an unmatched level of technical expertise. Where applicable, we take a high touch approach, striving to add value to the board's governance process and tailoring our offering to meet the client company's specific requirements. In addition, we have developed market-specific policies, procedures and systems which are supported by dedicated operational, information technology, internal audit and compliance teams. This ensures that our directors are fully equipped to provide efficient and effective governance solutions that help the entities we serve best meet their objectives.
